PREFATORY NOTE

The purpose of this volume is to furnish a guide to the economic material contained in the printed reports of administrative officers, legislative committees, and special commissions of the State of Maine and in the messages of the governors to the legislature of that state. The present volume will be followed by others, each devoted to a single state. The work when completed will, therefore, furnish an index to the economic material in the reports and governors' messages of all the states of the Union.

The index undertakes to deal only with the printed reports of administrative officers, legislative committees, and special commissions of the states and with governors' messages for the period since 1789. It does not refer to constitutions, laws, legislative proceedings or court decisions, except in so far as they happen to be found in the class of documents above mentioned. It attempts, on the other hand, to furnish a list, as complete as possible, of all the documents and messages which fall within its scope, in whatever form they may have been published, whether separately, in collected documents, legislative journals or volumes of laws, and to indicate the volume in which they may be found. Unless otherwise indicated the material indexed is in the New York Public Library. In some cases reference is made to reports and messages prior to 1789, and to publications other than public documents which it was felt would be helpful to those likely to use the index. Although these have been included no claim to completeness is made except in the case of the documents and messages since 1789. In addition to furnishing a list of reports and messages, the index undertakes to supply a reference by volume and page to all material of economic importance which they contain, with the exception of that contained in the reports of bureaus of labor. The reason for this exception is that these reports have already been indexed by Carroll D. Wright, late United States Commissioner of Labor,[1] in a volume published by his department in 1902. Although the index is confined to matter of economic importance the term "economic" has been given a broad interpretation and it is believed that the index will constitute a useful addition to the resources of students of almost any aspect of American history.

It will be seen that the present index differs both in scope and character from R. R. Bowker's "State Publications," the valuable pioneer work in this field. It is narrower in scope than "State Publications" which aims to present a list not only of reports and governors' messages but of all state documents; but in the field which the present work covers it contains not only a more complete list of documents than has hitherto been published but also an index of their contents in so far as these have an economic bearing.

[1] Index of all reports issued by bureaus of labor statistics in the U. S. prior to Mch. 1, 1902. Wash., 1902. 287 pp. 8°.

Each volume is divided into two parts. Part I contains references to general sources of information and descriptive matter arranged according to the character of the publication. Part II contains references to particular series of reports, and particular topics, arranged alphabetically. The references under each topic are divided into two groups, viz., " serial " and " non-serial." Within each of these divisions the arrangement is chronological. Anyone desiring information on any particular topic will, therefore, look for that topic in its alphabetical order in Part II. Numerous cross-references will, it is hoped, make it possible to discover with little difficulty all the material bearing on that topic.

Uniform entry words for subjects recurring in different states will be retained throughout the series. It will thus be possible to make a study not only of the historical development of an economic subject as reflected in the documents of an individual state but also to make a comparative study of that development as it has taken place in the country at large. To accomplish this purpose it has been necessary to make the selection of entry words without reference to the peculiarities of local usage, such peculiarities being recognized in the case of each state by cross-references. The abbreviations employed are believed to be sufficiently obvious to make a table of them unnecessary. Unless otherwise stated the size of the books is octavo.

There still exists some vagueness concerning the early printing of the official publications of Maine, more particularly concerning that done during the time when Portland was the seat of government, viz., from 1820 to 1831. That no annual reports were published prior to 1822 there is little room for doubt. All the printing was done under, and specified by legislative resolve. With the exception of those acts providing for the printing of the laws and statutes, and the resolve of March 19, 1821, providing for the printing of the militia act, the only authorized printing was that of the public notices. The governor's message is, by statute, required to be made a part of the Acts and Resolves. A copy, in pamphlet form, of the message for 1820 is in the Harvard College Library and in the New York Public Library. The act of January 30, 1822, made it the duty of the treasurer annually to lay before the legislature " a printed detailed account of the treasury " (italics compiler's). The earliest printed copy found is that for 1827. In his message of January, 1827, Governor Lincoln says: " The particular facts relative to this subject (i. e. state finances) will appear in the Annual Treasury Report." The report referred to is the report for 1826, and from this matter of course reference to it, it would not be unreasonable to infer that earlier treasury reports were not unknown at that time. A copy of the land agent's reports for 1825 and 1828, respectively, is in the Harvard College Library. A copy of the " Laws in relation to the education of youth," 1826, is in the New York Public Library. The Maine State Library has two bound volumes labeled " Council documents," 1829 and 1830, respectively, containing those reports customarily bound in the collected documents of the states. These are the only two years for which the documents were collected during the time in which Portland served as the seat of government.

Soon after the removal to Augusta, provision was made for collecting the documents, and it is an open question whether the documents for 1829 and 1830 were not brought together under the impulse of this act rather than during the years for which they are dated. Leaving aside, then, the governor's message of 1820 and the militia act of 1821, the only report for the period before 1827 which up to this time has been found, in pamphlet form, is the land agent's report for 1825. After 1827 and to the year of removal, there have been found, of the regular reports, the treasurer's reports beginning 1827, the prison reports beginning 1829, and the bank abstract, beginning 1829. Almost without exception, it is found that the reports for the years 1830 and 1831 have disappeared. It was deemed to be without the province of this analysis to discover just what bearing the long political struggle in Maine between federalists and republicans, during these years, had on the non-appearance or the disappearance of the documents of this time. In 1832 the seat of government was removed from Portland to Augusta.

Early in the year 1833 the legislature passed a resolve ordering the clerk of the House to retain twenty copies of every document printed by order of either branch of the legislature, and at the end of the session to cause the same to be bound for the use of the legislature. The first volume under this resolve appeared in 1833, and contains the customary departmental and miscellaneous reports for the year 1832. There is, from this year, no break in the continuity of the collected documents or in that of the departmental reports, save, in the latter case, that occasional lapse found in all files of state documents. Such omissions are noted, in the present compilation, under the several headings where entries of these reports occur.

Prefixed to the index for each state will be found a list of the volumes of collected documents and journals of the state. To each volume a serial number has been given, on the same plan and for the same reason which has made the serial number helpful as applied to federal documents.

No public documents were collected prior to 1829 and none were collected for 1831 or 1832. The earliest printed Senate journal is that of 1854. No Senate journal was printed for 1855, 1859, or 1862. The earliest printed House journal is that of 1855. No House journal was printed for 1859, 1862, 1863, or 1864.

The public documents of some of the earlier years may be found sometimes bound in one volume as indicated, sometimes in two volumes. Libraries having them in the latter form will need to add volume number to the serial number.

Volume three of the public documents of 1880 relates to election frauds and is not commonly found.

STATE PAPER

(Portland seat of govt.)

1820-1832. No paper seems to have been designated in 1820 or 1821. The Eastern Argus, then a semi-wkly., was established as state paper by resolves of 1822, 1823, and 1831.

(Augusta seat of govt.)

1833-1904. From 1833-1854 The Age served as state paper; in 1855 the Kennebec Journal, then a tri-wkly., was the official organ; in 1856 The Age served as the state paper, and from 1857 to 1904 the Kennebec Journal has been the official paper. Very soon after the removal of the seat of govt. the legislative proceedings were recorded with some fullness in the official organ, and as early as 1854 it was the custom to print discussions and debates almost verbatim. As no journals were printed before 1854, the state paper becomes the official record of legislative proceedings.

[1829-] 1855. Ann. rept. comrs. appointed by gov. and council to examine banks. Portland, 1829; Augusta, 1832-1855.

Repts. for 1830-1831 not found. It is more than probable that repts. were printed before 1829. Gov. Lincoln, in his 1827 message, says: "The able discharge of duty by the comrs. appointed to examine the condition of our banks, has led to reports of great merit, which will be laid before you" (italics compiler's.) The first expenditures for bank comrs. were allowed in 1821, the 2d in 1823, the 3d in 1827, thereafter annually except in 1830.

Pursuant to U. S. House resolution of July 10, 1832, the secretary of the treasury was directed to submit to congress at the next and at each successive session a return showing the capital, circulation, etc., of the various state banks. Returns were made annually from 1833 to 1863 inclusive, when the first national bank act went into operation. Under the federal resolution the following annual reports of the state of Maine came to be printed in the federal documents. Returns made by the U. S. secretary of the treasury, under this resolution, and which are not annual reports, are entered below in their chronological place under the "non-serial" group.

[1829-] 1871. Abst. from returns of several incorporated banks made to secy. of state. bdside.

Semi-annual, viz., Jan. and June, 1829-1844; June and Oct., 1845; May and Oct., 1846-1852; Jan. and June, 1853-1871. None found 1831-1838, and for certain semi-annual periods as noted below. 1829-1841 returns are made by directors, thereafter by cashiers of banks. It is very probable that earlier returns were printed. The law of Jan. 13, 1821, required semi-annual returns, made in December and June, to be lodged with the secy. of state. This was Maine's first act for the regulation of banks. It was amended by act of Feb. 11, 1823.

1832-44 for yr. ending Dec. 31; 1846-51 for yr. ending Apr. 30; 1852-1904 for yr. ending Dec. 31. It is wholly probable that repts. before 1827 were printed. The act under which the treasurer originally made his report, viz., sec. 2, act of Jan. 30, 1822, provides "that it shall be the duty of the state treasurer, annually, on the first Monday after the meetings of the legislature, to lay before the two Houses of the legislature, a printed detailed account (italics compiler's) of the Treasury. . . ." The Governor, in his message of 1825, commenting on the state finances, says "By the report of the treasurer which will be laid, before you" (italics compiler's). Gov. Lincoln, in his message of 1827, says "The particular facts relative to this subject (viz. finances) will appear in the Annual Treasury Report." No rept. was made in 1859, the Peck defalcation occurring in that year; see below, Misappropriation of Public Funds.
